Chiawana rolls past Hanford in schools' first game in more than a year

JP Zamora threw three touchdown passes to Jalen Webber, and Cameron Breier added two TD runs, as visiting Chiawana defeated Hanford 32-14 on Friday night.

The game was the first for both teams since November 2019, as the pandemic shut down all high school sports until this past week.

The Riverhawks gave Scott Bond his first win in his head coaching debut at Chiawana.

Bond took over for longtime head coach Steve Graff after the hall of fame coach retired in 2020. But Bond had been an assistant for Graff for at least 20 years, first at Pasco High and then Chiawana.

It also was the head coaching debut for Nick Baker, who took over the Falcons program when Brett Jay resigned after the 2019 season.

And Baker's team held the lead at halftime at 14-13, thanks to a 12-yard TD scamper by Hanford quarterback Easton Wise-Hyde, and then a 62-yard scoring strike to Jaxon Farrah with 1:15 left before intermission.

But in the second half, the Riverhawks kicked it into overdrive, scoring three touchdowns and 19 unanswered points.

The Chiawana defense, meanwhile, shut out the Falcons offense in the final two quarters.

Linebacker Gerardo Alonso had an outstanding game for the Riverhawks, amassing 15 tackles with two quarterback sacks and another tackle for loss. Isaac Hoag added 7 tackles, with a QB sack.

The Zamora to Webber connection was dynamite for Chiawana: 4 passes for 126 yards, with TD passes of 16, 61 and 26 yards.

Zamora — a junior who has verbally committed to the University of Utah — finished the game going 18 for 27 for 233 yards.

Breier finished rushing 16 times for 78 yards and TD runs of 2 and 25 yards. At linebacker, he added two tackles with a quarterback sack.

In all, Riverhawks defenders sacked Wise-Hyde eight times.

Wise-Hyde finished passing at 5-for-11 for 99 yards and a TD pass. Farrah had two catches for 76 yards, while Anthony Garza rushed 13 times for 63 yards for the Falcons.

Chiawana is at Pasco next Friday, while Hanford will host Hermiston on the same night.
